Dear Memed Sueb,

the manuscript The effect of shariah board characteristics, risk-taking, and maqasid shariah on Islamic bank's performance, submitted to Banks and Bank Systems Journal, needs to be revised.

Comments:

lease revise your manuscript according to the Manuscript Submission Guidelines. Please also note that we consider three types of articles in the journals of our publishing house - research paper, which is a final report on the finished original experimental study (the structure is Abstract, Introduction, Literature review, Method, Results, Discussion, Conclusion); theoretical paper, which is devoted to the theoretical study of the problem, which complies with the journal's scope (the structure is Abstract, Introduction, Theoretical Basis, Results, Discussion, Conclusion); review paper, which is a study of a concrete scientific problem, which complies with the journal's scope and is conducted based on the materials of the scientific publications (the structure is Abstract, Introduction, Literature review, Generalization of the main statements, Discussion, Conclusion). Therefore, you should choose the type of article, and this will determine the appropriate structure. The length of the manuscript (maximum) should be up to 6000 words (not including the abstract, list of sources, and appendices). Attachments should not exceed 5 pages. The material should be correctly divided into sections. The following should also be taken into account when finalizing the manuscript. The abstract (its volume is 150-250 words) should have the following sequence of presentation of the material - relevance, purpose, method, result, and conclusion. This is exactly the sequence it should be. Most of the volume of the abstract should be devoted to the result. Quantitative indicators of the demonstration of the research result should be given in the abstract. Keywords should be words and not repeat the title of the article. JEL Classification codes should be indicated (they should reflect the article's content and be double-digit).

The introduction should be devoted to the relevance of the research topic and the formulation of the research goal. This is half a page - a page of text. There should be 40-60 analyzed sources in the literature review. This should be the main volume section. The Result section (in the review article, it is the Generalization of the main statements) is the key section of the article. Then there should be a Discussion section. There should be a discussion of research results, a comparison with previous ones, a discussion of why the authors have such results, and a determination of prospects. The conclusions are drawn incorrectly. There should be such logic here - we indicate the purpose of the research, briefly demonstrate the obtained result, and indicate what conclusions should be drawn from it. In the abstract, sentences from the conclusions should not be repeated. Figures and tables from other sources are not allowed in the article.

Dear Memed Sueb,

the manuscript The effect of shariah board characteristics, risk-taking, and maqasid shariah on Islamic bank's performance, submitted to Banks and Bank Systems Journal, needs to be revised.

Comments:

Please do not use the words We or Authors in the text, but use the Passive Voice. The research result should be more thoroughly demonstrated in the abstract. This should be removed in the Introduction "Our paper contributes to the empirical IB literature in several ways: (1) covering risk-taking, SSB and IB performance in one framework; (2) analysing the influence of the maqasid shariah and performance; (3) testing and analysing the impact of SSBs, risk-taking, maqasid shariah, and performance in different regions. ". The Literary review should not be divided into many subsections, because the logic is lost. First, you should state the purpose of the research, and then its hypotheses.
